

Guides and Outfitting for Your Next Adventure!

Navigate and get where you want to go:

Map Reading I - This is a course designed to give you the knowledge and confidence in reading a topographical map and locating points called coordinates on a map. You will become proficient in interpreting a map's marginal information and symbols, plotting grid coordinates, plotting routes, figuring distances and direction. The finest maps available are worthless unless the map user knows how to read them. Course fees include all course material and book.

Map Reading II - Land Navigation - Building on the basics of Map Reading I course, you will learn to navigate from one point to another using a map and compass, elevation and relief, and terrain association. You will also learn how to use the same techniques whether you are in a motor vehicle or on foot. This course includes all course material, classroom instruction and a hands on field exercise.

Ground Positioning System - The GPS is a great navigational tool! Learn how to integrate it while performing land navigation. The GPS cannot ever fully substitute a map and compass while navigating but it can greatly enhance your ability to understand where you are in the scheme of the great outdoors. This course includes all course material, classroom instruction, and a hands on field exercise.
